Nicely looking breaker but unfortunately i'll recommened against aquirring this game as the only control options is joypad and keyboard and the result of that is a game that doesnt have the natural flow of handling a game like this should have and therefore becomes next to impossible to actually enjoy for me. I rarely refund games but this is one of the rare occasion where i made such request as i simply wont buy the developers explanation that the game would become too easy with mouse control and that explanation pretty much fall flat in my view as it seems like a poor development choice above all.. It looks very nice for sure, but the paddle controls are not very responsive, not the most pleasant experience. It feels laggy. The sideways perspective is a bit awkward as well. It has fun level design and includes nice details, like being able to bonk the cars that drive past.
